Camilla, Duchess of Cornwall, wife of Prince Charles, made a stylish public appearance today. She was at the Frome Men's Shed in Somerset which offers a workspace where people from Frome and the surrounding area can work on practical projects with others. It is equipped with tools and materials donated by the public or local businesses. The Duchess of Cornwall was photographed chatting to members of the shed.

She opted for a matching purple and dark green tartan skirt and buttoned blouse.

The shirt was buttoned nearly all the way to the top while the skirt fell below her knees.

Camilla was previously seen wearing this purple tartan in October when she and Queen Elizabeth, 91, attended a horse whispering demonstration by Brooke Global Ambassador Monty Roberts at the Royal Mews, Buckingham Palace.

As fitting for the winter weather she also donned a black cape and black leather gloves for the Somerset visit.

The cropped cape was undone, displaying the row of small purple buttons on the tartan blouse underneath.

The outfit was completed by long heeled black boots, the top of which were hidden by the tartan skirt.

Camilla accessorised with one of her favourite gold chain bracelets with multi-coloured, semi-precious stones. The Duchess has two of the bracelets.
